DOG DAYS OF SUMMER

Hope everyone is having a great summer!

PUPSICLES

EASY HOMEMADE "PUPSICLES"

Here is a recipe for some tasty, veterinarian-approved homemade popsicles for dogs — or "pupsicles."

Simple fruit and yogurt pupsicles:

Fruits and veggies are some of the best treats you can give your dog. When combined with creamy, frozen yogurt – you're providing your dog with a tasty snack that's also healthy for him.

Prep time 10 minutes | Total time 2 Hours | Yields at least 6 treats.

INGREDIENTS:

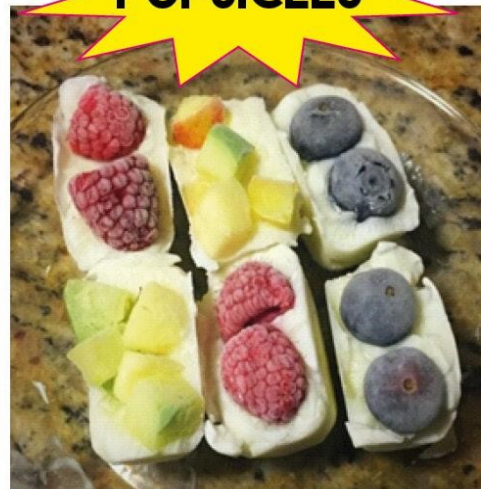

16 oz. plain yogurt

Assorted fresh fruits, cut into small pieces if needed

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Spoon yogurt into a clean ice cube tray or dog treat mold.
2. Top each treat with 2-4 pieces of fresh fruit.
3. Freeze for at least two hours. Serve one to your dog, and store the rest in a freezer-safe container for one to two days.

Retirement for Molly

Sweet Molly, she has earned her retirement! Thank you for sharing Molly with us at Pets for Life and all the people she has brought smiles and happiness to through the years!

Time has come for MOLLY to announce her retirement from Pets for Life. MOLLY & my experience is very hard to put into words.

Over the past 11 years MOLLY has visited so many at Kansas University Medical Center, John Knox Village and especially SAINT LUKE'S HOSPICE HOUSE. Ya gotta agree....She done GOOD!

Molly is already loving her retirement -sound asleep by her favorite window! Very sweet!

Woof,
Alexis & of course, MOLLY ~ Always ~

America's Newest Dog Breed

INTELLIGENT,
WHIMSICAL and
VERY FLUFFY

The newly recognized Pumi dog breed has a background of herding, which may become evident around kids and other dogs. Patient training at 10 to 12 weeks of age is recommended to help this breed adopt the habits he needs to be a happy member of your family. Habits the Pumi (plural Pumik) may need to overcome include herding, barking and digging, all issues that training will be able to improve. Socialization is also extremely important for Pumi puppies, not just with humans in his own adopted family, but with other people, dogs and cats.

PUMI
